

SPELLING UKASE RAISES A LAUGH

Whole English Speaking World Agog At Prospect Of Thots Drest In New Stile.

VARITY PROFS SPEAK IN SCORN

Dean Birge Of Madison, Says Thrt The Proposition Is Ridiculous and Too Absurd To Discuss.

President Roosevelt's dictum that in all the correspondence from the executive office hereafter thots be drest in the stile set by Carnegie and advocated by the spelling reform committee headed by Prof. Brander Matthews of Columbia University, which was set forth in the Associated Press dispatches yesterday, has raised a laugh in England and is not taken seriously in many sections of our own country.

Prof. James Morgan Hart of the English department at Cornell university says: "We must secure uniform pronunciation before we can hope to have a successful phonetic system of spelling."

"I'm against it," said Superintendent of Schools E. G. Cooley of Chicago. "Whenever I see one of those confounded words on a page it haunts me four or five lines ahead and as many after. It gives me a pain. I'm against it."

Birge Calls Project Absurd

According to Madison advices the adoption of the Carnegie reform system of spelling by President Roosevelt is not indorsed by the leading educators of Wisconsin, the old way seeming best to them. Not only are the changes illogical, but they are crude and in many cases the real root of the word is entirely lost.

"It's absurd to discuss such a proposition," said Dean Birge, head of the Wisconsin state university. "It would make us look ridiculous, to attempt to discuss such a thing."

A look of disgust overspread his face as he spoke.

Princeton Opinion

Prof. Charles McMillan of Princeton university, when told of President Roosevelt's plan to adopt the phonetic system of spelling, said:

"Why, I can hardly believe it possible. As far as the practical side is concerned, you know that we American people do not change our methods easily. It usually takes us some time to accept an extreme such as this. For my part, I do not think it would be of any value, for when we change our words to spell them phonetically, we lose their origin. When we do this we will have to begin all over."

New Spelling Indorsed

The 200 simplified spellings which President Roosevelt has indorsed and which he will use in the future in both his official and personal correspondence, are as follows:

Abridgment, accountant, accurst, acknowledgment, address, adz, affix, altho, amusest, anemia, anesthesias, anesthetic, anphyria, antitoxin, apothem, apprise, arbor, archeology, ardor, armor, artizan, assize, ax.

DEMOCRATS INTERNALLY RIVEN OVER RAIL RATES

Hot Primary Contest Comes To Close In Alabama Today—"Alternate" Senators To Be Nominated.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 25.—The political campaign which has kept Alabama stirred up more or less since the first of the year came to an end today. Monday next the state primary will be held. As the state is overwhelmingly democratic the selection at the primary will be equivalent to election.

The plan adopted by the state democratic executive committee provides that the successors to the two present United States senators shall be chosen at the primary, and also makes provision for the selection of two alternate senators, who are to be appointed by the governor in the event that Senators Morgan and Pettus, or their successors, should die or resign. This plan was due chiefly to the advanced age of the two senators. It is a new departure in state politics, and the adoption of the idea has called forth considerable criticism from the press and public men, many of whom characterize it as an effort to fill "dead men's shoes" before the men wearing those shoes have died.

Senators Morgan and Pettus are unopposed for reelection, but for the two alternate senators the aspirants are as follows: Former Governor Joseph F. Johnston of Birmingham, former Governor William C. Oates of Montgomery, former Congressman Richard H. Clarke of Mobile, former Attorney General W. C. Flitts of Mobile, Congressman John H. Bankhead of Fayette, former Congressman Jesse F. Stallings of Birmingham, and John B. Knox of Birmingham, president of the last state constitutional convention.

The paramount issue in both the race for senator and the contest for governor is the regulation of railroad rates. The fight for governor is an interesting one, the two rival candidates being B. B. Comer, president of the state railroad commission and a prominent farmer and cotton mill owner, who is the leader of the radical race reform element, and Lieutenant-Governor R. M. Cunningham, who represents the conservative element. Comer is demanding the election of a legislature in sympathy with his ideas, while Dr. Cunningham asserts that he will not attempt to dictate the selection of a legislature, but will not hesitate to elect to tell the lawmakers what he thinks they should do in the matter of rate regulation.

The aspirants for lieutenant-governor are: Col. Henry B. Gray of Birmingham, Emmett O'Neill of Florence, former federal district attorney under President Cleveland, and State Senator D. J. Meador of Marengo county.

Contests are on for auditor, chief justice and associate justice, state railroad commissioners, and commissioner of agriculture.

There appears to be no opposition to Col. Alex. M. Garber of Talladega for attorney general, Walter D. Seed of Tuscaloosa for treasurer, Harry Cunnells of Calhoun county for superintendent of education, and Frank N. Julian of Tusculum for secretary of state.

SOMETHING DOING "IN 1907 FOURS"

WILLIAM WOLFF SMITH WRITES OF SPECULATION.

WHAT IS IN THE WIND?

Other Washington Gossip Regarding
the Different Experiments Being Made.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—(Special correspondence.)—There is "something doing" in U. S. Fours of 1907. Just what it is no one is in a position to know with any degree of certainty, but there is a "something doing" in the U. S. Fours of 1907.
The National City Bank of New York will walk off with the chicks leaving the public the empty eggshells. What does Secretary Shaw propose to do about the U. S. Fours of 1907, is a question that the holders of $116,755,150 worth of these bonds would like to have answered. They would also like to know if the National City Bank has any advance information and if so what it is.
Secretary Shaw is keeping his own counsel and is turning a deaf ear to all inquiries.
Nevertheless it is suspected that a "melon is to be cut" and the National City Bank proposes to be the chief beneficiary. This issue of bonds is known as the funded loan of 1907, and was floated under acts of 1879 and 1881, being issued from 1877 to 1879. There were $116,755,150 worth of these bonds issued of which $116,755,150 are yet at large. The maturity on July 1, 1907, and it is up to Secretary Shaw to pay them or to make arrangements to exchange them for two per cent bonds. He can do either under the law. If he permits the bonds to run along until July 1, 1907, it will cost him $116,755,150 principal plus $4,670,200 interest, a total of $121,425,350. Has Uncle Sam a trifle of $121,000,000 to hand over and above his running expenses between now and July 1, next? Very likely,
and yet the report has gone abroad that Secretary Shaw proposes to redeem these bonds in advance.
Here is where the National City Bank comes in. Of the "1907 fours" $83, 480,700 worth are registered. It is against the regulations for the treasury department to make known the names of holders of its bonds and it is doubtful if the National City Bank, with all its influence, can secure a list of these from the department, yet it is possible that it may have done so, for it has a long reach and its representatives are very close to the department, although it could not obtain the names with the consent of Secretary Shaw. But there are $83, 274,000 of these bonds which are not registered and which are held by unknown parties. To reach these the National City Bank is advertising largely throughout the country press.
It represents that, because of "the demand for government bonds due to the appointment of a large number of temporary public depositaries" they will pay almost as much as the government in case the bonds are held until maturity. "We can pay 103%, or at the rate of $1,032.50 for a $1,000 bond," it advertises the philanthropic National City Bank, which it points out is only 1/4 of one per cent less than the holders will receive by July 1, 1907. The bank also points out that this is a fine time to invest in all kinds of railroad bonds, etc.

Now, at first glance this looks like a good proposition, but it has some haws. The National City Bank is not lending money at less than on an average of four per cent. One per cent interest will be paid on these bonds on October 1, 1906, and on the first of January, April and July, 1907.
So the National City Bank is offering to pay par plus three and a quarter per cent for the pleasure of collecting 3/4 of one per cent interest on its money for a period of eleven months.
As the bank would normally receive four per cent per annum on the money it is asking how it expects to make money collecting 3/4 of one per cent against the three and two-thirds per cent it would receive at its usual rates. The value of the bonds to the National City Bank is therefore roughly estimated as follows: purchase price, $103.75; customary rate of interest on money for eleven months, $3.86; total, $107.61. From this must be subtracted the three-quarters of one per cent discount, leaving a total value of $106.66. To be accurate the expense of advertising and getting possession of those bonds must also be added, which would probably bring the total to about $107. It is this price therefore that the bonds are worth to the National City Bank, at the lowest calculation. The question now arises as to why these bonds are worth so much to the National City Bank that it is securing the country for them.
Are these banks so eager to be distinguished public depositaries that they would purchase these bonds? It would seem not, for they would have to pay the National City Bank $103.75

plus the cost of advertising, etc., together with a fair profit in return for which they would stand a chance of being made a government depository for an interval of say nine months at the outside. They could make nothing on the bonds and would be in reality advancing $105 or more for each $100 the government might deposit with them. They could much better afford to lend out their own money. It is therefore apparently conclusive that this is not the market for the bonds that the National City bank expects to tap.

Next comes the proposition that Secretary Shaw will utilize the surplus in redeeming these bonds. But if he redeemed them at anything like par at this time with a profit of eleven months to go, his method of financing would be criticized to the limit.
Redemption at anything less than par would mean a loss to the National City Bank. In fact, to break even on redemption the bank would have to hold the bonds until next May unless the secretary took them off its hands before that time. Thus the idea that the bank has gone into this deal to make a profit by reselling these bonds to other banks, or by having them redeemed must be discarded. There remains then nothing but the idea that the bank expects these bonds to be refunded into two per cent bonds and is accumulating them for that purpose. Just how much the National City Bank expects to make on such a transaction does not appear as it depends on circumstances when the bonds are redeemed, how many old bonds the bank can get and on what terms it gets them. If the bank can get hold of fifty or one hundred million dollars' worth of these bonds it will be in a very good position to make favorable terms with the treasury department.

Just what information the National City Bank has that the public has not,
is an interesting theme for speculation. Frank A. Vanderlip, who was formerly one of the assistant secretaries of the treasury, is a vice-president of the National City Bank, and Milton E. Allen, also once an assistant secretary and now a vice-president of a Washington bank, is credited with being the Washington agent of the National City Bank. The two form a strong team when dealings with the treasury department are concerned, especially when backed by the Standard Oil company's bank.
The fact that the bank offers to pay for telegrams from holders of $5,000 or more worth of these bonds indicates its desire to get possession of them quickly, so the predicament that holders of the bonds will do well to take the tip from the bank and hang on to their bonds.

By reason of the fact that the people of America probably consume more syrups than perhaps those of any other country, an article on "Table Syrups" from the pen of Doctor Wiley, the chemist of the department of agriculture, will be of interest.
There are several kinds of table syrups in common use, namely, the maple syrup, syrup made from sorghum and the old fashioned "molasses," made from the manufacture of sugar. There has lately been an extension in the southern states in making syrups.
Syrup is made in these localities directly from the sugar cane and without the separation of any of the sugar, which, according to Doctor Wiley, forms a delicious, wholesome and valuable condimental food substance, the use of which is rapidly extending and because of its merits he thinks it is destined to become an important food. He says the manufacture of these table syrups is conducted in the simplest manner, largely by individual farmers or by associations of farmers.

"The department of agriculture has lately conducted some experimental work in the manufacture of table syrup from sugar cane with a view to securing a larger yield at less cost," continues Dr. Wiley's article.
"An experimental factory has been built near Waycross, Georgia. The growth of sugar cane for syrup-making is possible over a wide area of the South Atlantic and Gulf states.
Wherever sugar cane can be grown for sugar-making, as in Florida, Louisiana, and Texas, it can also be grown for syrup-making. The southeastern quarter of Texas, two-thirds of Louisiana, the southern third of Georgia and all of Florida have climatic conditions favorable to the production of sugar cane which can be used profitably for syrup-making. With the proper use of fertilizer the production of a crop of fifteen to twenty-five tons per acre is not difficult. A ton of good sugar cane with an average content of sugar should make from 15 to 24 gallons of syrup, according to the character of the technical processes used in the extraction and the evaporation of the sap. The total cost of producing a gallon of syrup, including the price of cane, manufacture, and packing, if modern machinery such as was used at the Waycross factory, be employed, varies from twenty to twenty-five cents."

Taking up the question of the food value of cane syrup Doctor Wiley advances the theory that a more central use of table syrup as a food would tend to increase the proportion of nitrogen-free material in the diet and it substituted for meat foods the syrup would diminish the quantity of nitrogen consumed. "Table syrups have only a slight trace of nitrogen, while the sugars which they contain are highly useful as foods, furnishing heat and energy," continues Doctor Wiley.

Concluding his report, Dr. Wiley says: "It appears from the data which we have collected in the experiments at Waycross that it is entirely possible to supply the demand for table syrup in the United States directly from the original sources, thus removing the danger of adulteration or contamination with substances injurious to health. The general consumption of a syrup of this kind would interfere with the industry which is engaged in making a synthetic syrup for table use from doubtful sources, but whom as a rule contains more or less molasses—the by-products of sugar manufacture—and contaminated more or less with substances injurious to health. The general welfare of the farmer and consumer would be promoted by the general consumption of pure syrups of the kind which have been described."

During the course of their investigations in the last fruit season the experts of the bureau of plant industry developed a new citrange, or hardy orange, two new lemons, and five new pineapples. It is clearly impossible or at least impracticable for the department to test these plants commercially and it is possible that some of these new varieties may prove disappointing. The department therefore cautions growers against planting new varieties extensively until they have been thoroughly tested and their full commercial value determined. The new citrange, or hardy orange, developed by this bureau, has, with the consent of Secretary Wilson, been named the "Morton" in recognition of the valuable services to agriculture of the late secretary of agriculture, J. Sterling Morton. While most of the fruits of the Morton cit-range produced to date have been seedless, a few seeds and rudiments occur in some fruits. The experts think that this variety, when extensively grown will produce few seeds.

This fruit has also resisted the winters at Glen St. Mary, Florida, without losing its leaves. During a recent winter this fruit endured a temperature between fifteen and eighteen degrees Fahrenheit without noticeable effect. In recent tests at Lake City, Florida, the Morton citrange has withstood temperatures which the ordinary orange has not. There is but a slight difference in the Morton citrange and the ordinary orange, the former being lighter in color with a slight indication of lobbing. The Morton orange has been tested by prominent orange growers who have pronounced it a very valuable and desirable fruit. It has a pleasant characteristic flavor, with very slight bitter taste, and served with sugar will be found to be a good breakfast fruit. It makes an attractive citrangeade, similar to lemonade or limeade, but is hardly any better for this purpose than the Rusk or Wilkes citrangs, so the experts of the plant industry bureau
say. They believe it can be grown safely without protection throughout the greater parts of Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Florida, California, and eastern and southern Texas. With some protection during severe cold spells, while the trees are small, it can probably be grown in South Carolina and in southern Virginia and Arkansas. It can probably also be grown in regions of low altitude in Arizona and New Mexico and near the coast in Washington and Oregon.

The new lemons, the "Palmetto" and the "Everglade" have also been developed by the department of agriculture. The former has been tested in the subtropical gardens of the department at Miami, Florida. The "Palmetto" lemons are of particularly fine appearance, running "Everglade"
very uniformly of about the same size, about 1.10 ounces heavy. The "Everglade" is larger than the "Palmetto" and is the largest and best of the line, which has been tested in the course of the experiments. The pineapples developed have been called the "Miami," "Seminole," "Eden," "Ma-thams" and "Gale," all of which are handsome, highly colored, with surface and well-proportioned crown.
In flavor they are said to be excellent, rich and sweet and not lacking in characteristic bouquet. They are believed to be the most promising fruits yet tested.

"TAY PAY" O'CONNOR TO VISIT AMERICA
Leader of Irish Cause Arranging to Come With Wife—Parliamentary and Journalist.

London, Aug. 25.—J. P. O'Connor, famously known as "Tay Pay," is leaving his affairs so as to spend several weeks in America this fall. Mr.
O'Connor is no stranger to America.
He has toured extensively throughout the United States and Canada and enjoys an intimate acquaintance with public men and affairs on the other side of the Atlantic. His visit in October will be in the interest of the United Irish League of Great Britain, of which he is president. Mr. O'Connor has been identified with the Irish cause for many years and as is quite natural under the circumstances there are many in public life who are his bitter opponents. But there is none to gainsay his wide personal popularity or his fame as a parliamentarian and journalist. It is said of him that he has written history, fiction, essays, political science and biography with equal fascination and charm. He was the founder of the London Star, Sun, Weekly Star, M. A. P., T. P.'s Weekly, and P. O. O. the latter being his latest venture. For many years he is said to have written an average of 350, 000 words annually, which is equivalent to several volumes. Mr. O'Connor will be accompanied to America by his wife, who is almost as well known as himself. Mrs. O'Connor is a Texas woman. She is a brilliant playwright, and when on the stage was also a celebrated actress, and those who are members of the circle of friends who gather at the entertainments at the O'Connor home in Chelsea esteem themselves fortunate.

STRAW HAT PERIOD TO BE PROLONGED

Cheering Word Comes From Milwaukee That Field-bonnets Need Not Be Thrown Away.
From Milwaukee, where the capital of Wisconsin's culture and fashion comes the cheering word that, straw hats need not be thrown on the junk pile on Sept. 1, this year. The old rule that one's social status courts destruction if a straw hat is worn after this date is not to hold good this time, we are told. The duration of the wearing of the field bonnets will be largely dependent on the weather and if it is at all warm, we are solemnly assured, a person may walk the main thoroughfare of the Badger State metropolis under a straw hat without being termed a "rube."

DIRECTORS WILL ESCAPE

No Action is Likely to be Commenced Against Them As it is Not Shown
That They Knew of Illegal Operations.

Investigation of the record of Henry
D. Bushnell, president of the Tabasco-Chiapas Trading and Transportation
Co., which is alleged to have swindled subscribers to its stock out of a total sum ranging from $750,000 to $2,000,000, has brought out evidence that he spent the money of his alleged dupes almost as quickly as it poured into his coffers. As a rounder, spender, speculator, lover of light life, and laughing and comissieur of wines and women he appears to have run Paul O.
Stensland of the Milwaukee Avenue State Bank, Chicago, a close race. He was host at the most elaborate and costly banquet ever given in the city of Mexico, lavishly entertained the governor and other officials of Chiapas, he spent large sums at the Sherman House, Chicago, and at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, on women.

Vast Conspiracy Charged.
Evidence has also been brought to light through the investigations of officers that the numerous peat fuel companies, which Bushnell was connected, never manufactured a single ton of peat nor owned the plants producing their prospectuses. Dushnell and Miller are charged with having promoted fourteen corporations alleged to have been purely stock-jobbing concerns. The investigations of the officers show the existence of a system of startling magnitude, capiti-alized at hundreds of millions of dollars, with agents operating in all parts of the world in which thousands of people have invested their savings with little prospect for a return on their investment. Nine of these corporations were Mexican colonization schemes and five of the companies were for the purpose of selling stock in the United States Peat Fuel company and its branch organizations. Registration proceedings have been instituted in the United States circuit court by Atty. W. E. O'Neill and the matter is now pending.

Wholesale Arrests Predicted.
All of the corporations included in the list of which Bushnell and John S. Markley were the controlling heads are being investigated by the federal authorities, and wholesale arrests are expected in the near future. It is declared these companies were organized for the purpose of selling stock and that dividends have been paid to stockholders out of the receipts from the sale of stock. The officers of the Tabasco-Chiapas company admit that the coffee sold by them at their headquarters at 18-20 River street was purchased from McLaughlin & Co., in New York. The full list of the Tatation company officers is as follows:

to what business the company was really engaged in and while one dea transportation corporation. The majority of the directors were not resi-

Attorney Marston, who is directing the prosecution of Bushnell and Miller, declared yesterday that no action would

it was shown that they had knowledge of illegal operations carried on by the officers of the company.

GOT HER MONA'S WORTH. Drug Store Customer Took Postage Stamps Instead of Hair Blotch.

The pretty girl whom the drug clerk recognized as a customer entered the store rather diffidently and approached the clerk with the air of one about to ask a favor, relates the Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

"Do you ever exchange things?" she asked, appealingly.

"Well, it depends. We try to be accommodating," he replied. "What do you want to exchange?"

"She brought forth a bottle, which she handed him.

"I-I decided not to use this," she said, "and I'd like to return it."

"This" was a bottle of peroxide of hydrogen, and the girl's hair was still brown.

"Certainly we'll take it back," said the clerk. "What do you want instead?"

She thought a minute and looked around at all the mysterious glass bottles and jars. Then an inspiration lit up her pretty face.

"You are so kind," she said. "I'll take it out in postage stamps."

AMERICAN WOMAN GUIDE. Touring Parties in Ancient Athens Show the Lights by Young Lady.

There is in Athens, Greece, a young American girl, Miss Florence Stone, who makes a good living as a professional guide. Some time ago, while traveling in Europe with her mother, Miss Stone received word that their fortune had suddenly been lost. Happening to be in Athens, she determined to remain there and do what she could toward their support. She tried teaching English for a while, but was not particularly successful in getting pupils.

Then, at the suggestion of a prominent American woman whom she had accompanied on one or two sightseeing expeditions, she offered her services to parties of tourists as a professional guide and has made a success of it. With education and culture as well as a perfect knowledge of modern Greek, she is better able to impart interesting historical information than the ordinary foreign guide.

Headache Causes and a Cure

Blood pressure or congested condition of the head is the direct cause of all headaches. To cure instantly and positively, this pressure must be relieved. Catarrh of the head is the cause of all headaches. Catarrh of the head is the cause of all headaches. Catarrh of the head is the cause of all headaches.

His Hard Luck. "Yes," said Mrs. Herlihy, pressing a damp handkerchief to her eyes, "he's an unfortunate man, my cousin Celia's man is. If ever there's any chance of a good thing he's always a little to wan side. If it hadn't been for that he'd be in his home now, instead of in the hospital, ma'am."

"Why, I understood that, Timothy, stepped backward off the staging and fell clear to the ground," said the distrustful visitor, sympathetic but puzzled.

"He did," said Mrs. Herlihy, with a fresh burst of tears, "but if he'd fell a bit more to the right there was a great pile of bricks, and it would have broke his fall, anyway."—Youth's Companion.

City of London Churches. Within the narrow limits of the city of London, with its mere handful of residents—only sufficient to people a small provincial town—there are still so many churches that you might worship in a different one every Sunday of the year without putting foot inside them all. Within the rural deanery of the East City there are today no fewer than ten churches, each of which ministers to a population of less than 200; the aggregate number of parishioners is 1,473, while the churches have accommodation for 2,750, thus providing almost two seats for every possible worshiper, including the infants in arms.

So Kind of Her. "Just to think," chuckled the tall suburbanite on the early local, "my wife says she is not going in my vest pockets again for two or three months."

"How nice of her!" commented the short suburbanite. "Now you will be able to find the price of a cigar when you get up in the morning."

"Hardly!"

"But she has promised not to go in your vest pockets?"

"Oh, that's because I am not going to wear any vest until fall."

A Charitable Cardinal. Cardinal Bonaparte was a grandson of Lucien Bonaparte. He was a very charitable man. During one of his illnesses a servant came to him and said that a poor person at the door begged for alms. "Give him what money you will find in 'my purse,'" said the cardinal. "There is no money, eminence. The silver spoons are all given away. We have nothing left but pewter spoons."

"Well, bring him in and give him a good meal."

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

The Saturday Evening Post thus discourses on "Mother Nature" and how she does business:

"This is the time of year when the stock-ticker lies limp in the broker's office, and the farmer has the floor. It is of vastly more importance to know whether it is good 'growing weather' than whether the attorney general has brought a new suit against the Standard Oil, or Mr. Cassatt has taken the steamer for home, or Mr. Gates is optimistic about his country. All over the land, from rocky Maine to sunny California, something is going on day and night that is of first-rate consequence to every one of eighty millions of human beings: water is trickling down the hillsides, moistening the soil; green stalks of corn are swelling with juice; grass is waist-high; wheat is growing golden under the hot rays of the sun. The earth is hard at work producing its annual dividend, and on its increase depends pretty much everything else—the mills, the railroads, the stores, the dinner-pail and the automobile for next year.

"We talk a lot about trusts, and captains of industry, about the senate and the supreme court; but Mother Nature really does the business. Each year she gives the country several billions, more or less, of clear, unmortgaged profits, with which Wall street may play its game of paper securities and the factories may open their doors for business.

"It is good to walk over the fields in the long midsummer days and know that, graft or no-graft, with or without Mr. Roosevelt's permission, and no matter what we may think of Mr. Rockefeller, the corn continues to ripen and the apples are turning red in the orchard. It may be a wicked world where the few take all the jack-pots; but the earth is a good mistress and she repays at usurious rates whatever is put into her."

The world is so matter of fact and the problems of life so engrossing, that humanity is prone to take the common blessings of life as a matter of course and without a "thank you." When the government throws open to the public a small reservation of wild western land and adds to the attraction the lottery feature, men and women flock to the scene by the thousands, and it is fortunate enough to draw a lucky number they imagine that a bonanza has been secured, when the fact remains that better land could have been secured near home for half the outlay.

When the news is flashed across the country that gold has been discovered in Nome or the Klondike, a mad rush of people swarm like bees, and all sorts of hardships are endured, when the fact is known that gold hard dollars are invested in gold mines that are ever taken out.

The spirit of speculation possesses the American people today as never before. Janesville, like many other towns in the immediate vicinity, has gone daffy on zinc mining and it is safe to say that more money has been invested in this sort of gambling than will ever be returned.

Every man who has a dollar invested in this kind of stock whether the amount be more or less flatters himself that he is possessed of inside information, and while he has waited for months for something to develop, the waiting has been in vain.

The lucky mine and the fortunate speculator are always in the foreground, while the other fellows, which represent the great majority, are never heard from.

But what has all this to do with Mother Nature? Nothing directly, except by way of contrast. There is nothing speculative about Nature's environments. The seasons come and go, with such monotonous regularity that people bank on them with absolute certainty.

countries contribute freely to the ranks of this class of toilers.

Much also is being made by organized labor just now because the government is employing Chinese labor on the Panama canal work, and yet organized labor could not furnish a handful of men for this kind of work.

The soil, unlike the mines and rubber plantations, is the inheritance of humanity. Confined to no locality or section of the country it waits year after year for the hand of man to plant the seed and harvest the crop. The soil contributes more to individual wealth and comfort every year than all the mines and factories of the land. The cotton crop of a single county in Texas is estimated at $4,000,000 this year, while the crops of Rock county represent more than this amount. The wealth of the nation is in the land and the millions of homes that occupy it, reaping golden harvests, year after year, shelter the people that give to the country stability.

Wall street is the great money center, but Wall street is as dependent on the product of the soil as is every manufacturing industry in the land. When the farmer is prosperous everyone is happy, for prosperity follows all along the line. Nature and the soil with God in control is a strong alliance and the men who work intelligently in harmony with it rarely fail.

VALUE OF ADVERTISING.

An exchange prints the following: "Don't advertise if you think you are wasting money. Let your competitor waste his money on advertising, and perhaps in this way you can put him out of business. Fix his clock works for him. Just stand back and laugh at him when you see him squandering his money for printer's ink. Once there was a boy named John—his last name was Wamamaker, or maybe it was Moneymaker—surely his name was John, with some kind of a maker attached to his last name. He owned fifty yards of calico, three pairs of jeans pants and five pairs of boots. He called it a dry goods store through a Philadelphia newspaper and offered to sell a pair of socks for 39 cents. The don't-believe-in-advertising merchants just laughed. Young John spent $25 in advertising through the Philadelphia Ledger just once and he had less than $100 worth of goods. He was cautioned by the merchants who 'knew, it didn't pay.' It was through sympathy that they offered him advice. But John didn't listen and blew in his money foolishly. Today poor John sees the result of his misdoings—he has so many dry goods stores he can hardly find time to study his Sunday school lesson.

PRESS COMMENT.

Two of a Kind.
Milwaukee Sentinel: The objection that Mr. Cannon is too old should be taken quite as seriously as the objection that Mr. Taft is too fat.

Some Fear to Look.
Rockford Register Gazette: Remember, no day is too hot to ascertain what progress the moths are making in your overcoat.

The Correspondent's Little Hoax.
Chicago Record-Herald: Did some wag who knew that Agass Calientes was Spanish for 'hot water' perpetrate that Stensland joke?

How to Fool 'Em.
Madison Journal: If a man can look wise and keep silent no one will suspect that his highest flights of fancy merely refer to the price of molasses.

Stoney Beloitovich.
Delavan Republican: Beloit was honored by a Russian recently. When he left the city the other day he gave his cognomen as Stoney Beloitovich. So says the Free Press.

Mincing the Muslim.
St. Louis Globe-Democrat: With the Bryan democrats chewing the rag in Illinois, and the Hearst democrats mincing the muslim in New York, the republicans are not without hope.

Bryan's Homecoming.
To their cavelets 'neath the wavelets Octopi in terror creep.
There's commotion in the ocean With the Peerless on the deep.
—New York Sun.

No Getting Rid of Them.
Milwaukee Journal: "Uncle Ike" is the only "original La Follette man" to go fishing this week. Most of them are on the firing line, shooting off their mouths like a Maxim machine gun.

As a Last Resource.
Atchison Globe: An Atchison man who has tried all the hair restoratives without result and eaten a lot of poultry food in the hope of causing feathers to grow on his head. Now he will try alfalfa—it grows everywhere else.

Dishonorable Tactics.
Delavan Republican: It is a truckling politician who will bid for votes from another party. It becomes a republican senator to be advising the democrats of this state to break party ranks so as to support Lenroot after landing W. J. Bryan.

Royal Blood Quite Common.
New York World: Professor Elroy M. Avery is tracing Mr. Rockefeller's ancestry back to the royal families of Scotland, England, France, Spain and Germany. That is no trick. Any man has theoretically 130,000,000 ancestors about A. D. 800—and it would be hard luck if there were not a few kings in the number.

Politics Tabooed Here.
Appleton Post: The Fond du Lac Commonwealth says that a Chautauque course, is counted a good advertisement for a city. It may be that but much more important than that is its educational value to a community. And in the broad sense it is a democratic institution. Its platform is accessible to all who have messages to present, especially relating to and affecting the political, social and ethical life of the nation, and who have the ability to present them well.

cessible to all who have messages to present, especially relating to and affecting the political, social and ethical life of the nation, and who have the ability to present them well.

Bushwhackers' Skirmishes.

Chicago Chronicle: The attempt to magnify the "battle" at San Luis, Cuba, into an affair of great importance seems absurd in view of the statement of the dispatches that the place was defended by less than 1000 rural guards. When we come to read carefully the accounts "from all over the republic" of uprisings and bloody encounters we find that these events taper down into trifling skirmishes of bushwhackers with "guards" who seem to be poor stuff. The "influential" leaders are invariably defeated politicians.

Unkissable Automobile Mouth!

Exchange: A London specialist says that women who ride in automobiles acquire ugly and unkissable mouths; that the exercise gives rise to some mysterious disease which thickens and hardens the lips; and that in twenty years from now the women of the wealthy classes will have mouths which will look like those of the belles of the Congo! Even now this particular specialist says he can tell a woman who has the auto habit by merely looking at her mouth. London specialists are like Chicago university professors, prone to gabble.

Robinson Crusoe's Island Gone.

La Crosse Tribune: The earthquake of Aug. 15 destroyed the historic island of Juan Fernandez, better known as Robinson Crusoe's island. Juan Fernandez was 400 miles off the Chilean coast. The island belonged to Chile, but once Alexander Selkirk, a Scotch seaman, was its sole inhabitant.

It was Alexander Selkirk's story that formed the basis of De Foe's immortal romance, "Robinson Crusoe." De Foe, as everybody knows, picked up the island of Juan Fernandez, carried it across the Andes, and plunked it down into the Caribbean sea, off the coast of Guinea. But Selkirk lived on the island just where it was when last Thursday's earthquake found it.

A Disease of Civilization.

Evening Wisconsin: Dr. Nicholas Senn, formerly of Milwaukee, who recently returned from a journey into Central Africa, whither he went to study the conditions of life there and the health of the natives, says that in his opinion cancer is a disease of civilization due to excessive nutrition. In support of this theory he cites his observation that the natives of Central Africa and those of the poor regions, who through force of circumstances are compelled to be abstemious in order to make the food supplies carry them through periods of shortage, are not subject to cancerous tumors. He therefore recommends care-as to diet, and simpler habits of life generally. There is more value for humanity in recommendations of this kind than in premature announcements of so-called "cures."

Beyond the Limits of Hope

(Kaiser in Chicago Record-Herald.) The oceans may be bridged some day. And everybody, by and by, May find some safe and easy way To buckle on broad wings and fly. The scorches may in time consent To give the rights of others heed. The greedy trusts may be content To take no more than what they need. The day may even come when lambs In Wall street shall no more be sheared. And putrid beef and doctored hams May in good time have disappeared. But will there ever come a day When bank examiners will see Before the looters get away How much their pilferings may be?

Neither Likely to Be Far Off

Chicago Chronicle: Pot and kettle are at it in New York, where Jerome and Hearst are exchanging compliments and incidentally bidding for the suffrages of the democrats and political nondescripts who constitute the opposition to the republican party. The Jerome designation of Hearst as a person "intellectually sterile, socially vulgar and morally obtuse" is not only pungent but accurate. As Hearst does his thinking and writing by proxy, we shall have to await the inspiration of his mercenary designation of Jerome. The beauty of the situation is to be found in the fact that whatever either says of the other is pretty sure to be true.

Hetty Green in Harsh Mood

Milwaukee Sentinel: Mrs. Hetty Green, that Russell Sage in petticoats whose temper has all the acridity of a green persimmon without its prospect of sweetening, has been saying very harsh things of New York "society." Charged by some with attempting to break into fashionable upstartdom, Aunt Hetty tartly retorts that she is not anxious for any of their company, "since the sets in New York are living in a worse manner than the people of Sodom and Gomorrah did, and I know it." People who delight in monkey dinners, provide their "poodles" with visiting cards and receive in Harry Lehr can hardly be downright wicked. They haven't the brains. However Aunt Hetty is wise in eschewing the company of the smart set. It would cost a lot of money.

Justice to La Follette

Milwaukee News: Senator Hemmingsway of Indiana, who has felt La Follette's Chautauque sting, has retorted by saying that the junior Wisconsin senator is not a senator or statesman at all, but only a lecturer. President Roosevelt has based criticisms of the rate bill in mind, is moved to denounce "the fanatical and foolish extremist" whose "wild clamor" is designed "to make a reputation with the unthinking."

Mr. La Follette is more than a lecturer. He is a friend of the people. He is more than an extremist. He is a politician. He never goes to extremes excepting when the extremes meet his ends. Mr. Roosevelt himself is not more cautious and deliberate than Mr. La Follette in raising "wild clamor" with a view of impressing the unthinking. Mr. La Follette may be a lecturer. But he is a senator and a statesman. He lectures not for the mere lucre

E. H. RANSOM CONDUCTING A VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN FOR THE OFFICE OF SHERIFF.

Mr. Ransom of the town of Bradford is making a strong effort to meet and become acquainted with every voter possible in the county before primary day. He has covered the county pretty thoroughly, and is confident that his candidacy has met with favor with the voters. There is no reason why Ransom should not be nominated for sheriff, as he has all the qualifications for the office. He was born and raised in Rock county and he has always had the welfare of his county at heart. Twenty years' service as supervisor of the town of Bradford and eight years on the county board, have made him thoroughly acquainted with the affairs of the county. The many acquaintances he has made during his county board service means much to him now, as these friends are rallying heartily to his support.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 25.—Well-known newspaper men from many parts of East and Middle West are rounding up in this city preparatory to starting for Denver to attend the sixteenth annual convention of the International League of Press Clubs. The journal-ists will travel westward by special train leaving Chicago tomorrow morning and reaching the Colorado capital Monday afternoon. The sessions of the convention are scheduled to begin the following day.

Knights to Celebrate.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 25.—Over 600 members of Bohemian lodge, Knights of St. John, of Cleveland, are to hold a big gathering in Detroit tomorrow to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of their order. While the largest number of knights will come from Cleveland there will also be a number from other cities throughout the country. The convention will discuss insurance and other matters relating to the affairs of the order.

"Settling Up."

Many words of most august sound prove to be of quite commonplace ancestry when traced to their origins. "Finance" is really only settling up. Literally, it is just "ending," and was formerly used in that very simple sense in the English language. Then it came to signify settling up with a creditor, and acquired the special sense of ransom.

STATE NOTES.

After a steady run of five years, during which time over 50,000,000 feet of lumber has been cut, the Leavitt Lumber company closed its sawmill at Frederic on Friday. It will take the company nearly two years to ship out the immense pile of lumber now on hand.

The Frederic electric light plant has just been purchased by Grimm brothers. Electricity will in the future be generated at the large water power in Trade lake, eight miles west of Frederic, and transmitted from there. The large flour mills there will be run by electric power in the future.

A road in Lac resort formerly known as the Red Front, and at one time conducted by John Radke of Milwaukee, who was featured in a recent police case here, was raided on Friday by Detective Fischer and Officer Planders, and two men, giving their names as H. Moody and Edward Cannon, and two young women, Helen Gibson and Martha May, were arrested.

It is announced at Racine that Senator Robert M. La Follette will speak at the Lakeside auditorium in that city on Sept. 1. Just what kind of a reception Senator La Follette will receive there is problematical, for the city and county are strongly in favor of Governor Davidson.

C. C. Ramsey, district superintendent for the United States Leather company, died at his home in Tomahawk yesterday morning. He was stricken blind on Tuesday while seated at his office desk and yesterday he suffered a stroke of apoplexy. Mr. Ramsey was in charge of the tanneries at Tomahawk, Prentice and Mellen. The body will be taken to Pennsylvania for burial.

CORRECT WAY TO PRONOUNCE MUCH-MOOTED "CHAUFFEUR"

The pronunciation of "chauffeur" according to the Standard Dictionary is Show-fur, the emphatic accent being placed on the last syllable. According to Webster's it is shoo-fur, the o having the value of o in obey and the that in fern. The primary accent is also placed on the final syllable. The word comes from the French and literally means a stoker. In English it is used to designate the one who manages the running of an automobile.

Thirty young people enjoyed a dancing party at East Side Odd Fellows' hall last evening. The affair was given in honor of the Misses Ransom and Gray of Green Bay. Y. M. C. A. PLANS GYMNASIUM WORK

Large Assembly Room Used for Entertainment Purposes Is to Be Pressed into Service.

Members and prospective members of the local Young Men's Christian Association, who are interested in the work done in that organization, will be glad to learn that because of the small amount of floor space in the present gym the promoters of the work are planning to have the large assembly room, used for entertainment purposes on the second floor, fixed into a room for indoor games. The room is now used for the playing of handball, but the splendid indoor games of basket ball and baseball have never been played in it. More space for gymnasium purposes has long been needed. The addition of a bowling alley in the basement has taken up some of the room used for gymnasium work and it is only a matter of time before some more extensive addition and improvement will have to be made. The fall and winter gymnasium work has grown considerably during the past few years and because of the size of the classes additional room is imperative. The addition of the room above the present gymnasium for the playing of games will be a great convenience to those who are seeking the gymnasium work alone, as well as a great help to the admirers and players of the different indoor games. The boys have long wanted a gymnasium of their own where they would not be interfered with in the playing of the interesting games which take place there every winter and this may be a means of solving the problem. During the hot months the regular gymnasium work is abandoned, but will again be resumed in a few weeks and it is expected that the work this season will be indulged by more members than ever before.

LOCAL BRAKEMAN IS HURT AT LONG LAKE

Stewart McConnell Brought Home With Injuries—Two Other Wrecks.

Yesterday and last night seemed to be an unlucky time for the railroads around this section of the country. Three wrecks of derailments are known to have happened around Janesville or the vicinity. At Beloit a couple of cars used in the sand pit were run off the track and this morning assistance in getting them on was asked of the local car men. At Kenosha several cars were run off the track on the North-Western road and the Baraboo wrecking train was sent for. It is not known in what condition the train is in, but it is thought that there are quite a number of cars off the track and traffic is hindered. At Long Lake, between here and Chicago on the St. Paul road where the large ice houses are, an engine gave a car load of ice an extra hard knock and threw Stewart McConnell, a brakeman of this city, from the top of the ground. The engine lost control of the car and it was derailed. As it was on a sidetrack the line between here and Chicago was not blocked. Mr. McConnell was found unconscious and given the immediate attention of a doctor at that place. He was brought to this city this morning over the St. Paul road and when examined by Dr. Pember he was found to have suffered from a sprained leg and back. He was taken to his home in a carriage but will be out again in a few days.

BOYS PLEADED NOT GUILTY TO CHARGE

Accused of Being Accomplices to Lad Already Convicted of Larceny—Represented by Ed. Carpenter.

Louis Beck and Archie Danks, the latter from below Atton, appeared in municipal court this morning for hearing on the charge of aiding Fred Herman in stealing thirty-two pounds of brass from the Elkhart Springs company and assisting in the concealment of the same. It will be remembered that Herman pleaded guilty to a similar charge and was sentenced to two years in Waupun. Danks and Beck both entered pleas of not guilty and their trial was set for next Wednesday morning at ten o'clock. They were represented by Edwin P. Carpenter and unless he and District Attorney Fisher can reach some understanding out of court it will be necessary to bring Herman back to the city as a witness. Judge Field set their bail at $500 each and upon default of payment both were committed to jail. The mothers of the two lads and a younger brother of Beck were in the court room.

Ogden H. Fethers Today Secured Judgment Against G. E. Vandercok, Sentinel Correspondent.

Justice Earle this morning rendered a judgment in favor of Ogden H. Fethers against G. E. Vandercok, the Milwaukee Sentinel's political correspondent, who is reporting La Follette's Lenroot campaign speeches. The suit was brought for the recovery of $50 and the interest accumulated thereon during one year. This is the first suit Mr. Fethers ever brought and he says that the defendant's attitude is the cause. He claims that about a year ago Mr. Vandercok, who was then located at the Fisher hotel in the Cream City, wrote Mr. G. Fethers asking for a personal loan of $50. Mr. Fethers was in the city at the time and Mr. Fethers opened the letter, which came to the offices of Fethers, Jeffris & Mount. Vandercok said he was entirely without funds and Mr. Fethers forwarded a personal draft for the requested amount. He says the borrower never even acknowledged the receipt of the money. This angered Mr. Fethers and when Mr. Vandercok was in the city with La Follette, Saturday, summons to appear in court today were served. No attention was paid the notice and the judgment was rendered.

LA FOLLETTE IS TO STAY WITH PARTY

Drops Hint to People of Elroy That He Has Decided Not to Desert Republicans.

For some time past it has been rumored that Senator La Follette, in case he did not succeed in nominating Speaker Lenroot for governor, would support the democratic candidate. The senator made an obvious effort to put this story at rest yesterday, in his speech at Elroy. While he made no mention of the rumor he evidently intended to answer it when he said: "Many of my friends who knew that my nomination in 1898 had been prevented by corrupt means advised me to run as an independent. But I said no, I was in this fight to stay, and if anyone was going to get out it would be the other side. I told them that I would make my fight as a republican in the republican party until the day I died."

General Notes

The governor and executive council of Iowa have fixed the valuation of the railroads of the state for taxation at $2,289,775, which is $4,099,536 larger than in 1905.

At St. Paul, Aug. 6, President Stickney of the Chicago Great Western, testifying before the state railroad commission, said that the practice of filing new freight tariffs very frequently and for small changes had now become very common among the railroads of the west, so common that the practice may be said to take the place of the secret rebating and other forms of manipulation formerly practiced.

Press dispatches from London, Aug. 2, reporting the half-yearly meeting of the shareholders of the London & South Western, represent the chairman, Sir Charles Scott, as saying that the speed of the train which was wrecked at Salisbury, July 1, was over 60 miles an hour, and that the rule required a speed well under 50 miles an hour. Up to the time of the Salisbury disaster no passenger had been killed on the London & South Western since January 1, 1889.

The state corporation commission of Virginia, which recently decided that the legislature had no power to pass a law requiring railroads to furnish mileage tickets at 2 cents a mile, did so on the ground that the constitution lodges all such power in the hands of the commission itself; and, pursuant to its duty, thus interpreted, the commission now proposes to limit all fares and announces that on November 1 it will hear any one who wishes to object to a proposed order limiting all fares throughout the state to 2 cents a mile.

LIBERAL LEADERS FOSTER DISTRUST

PEOPLE INFLUENCED TO QUESTION PALMA'S MOTIVES.

PATRIOTISM AT LOW EBB

Citizens in Rural Districts Show Little Love of Country, While Urban Population Is Not Much Better.

Havana, Aug. 25.—Reports from the country districts say that the people generally have been influenced by the liberal leaders and are inclined to be distrustful of the motives of President Palma's government. Therefore, they readily sympathize with the cause of the insurgents.

In the cities there is much more approach to genuine patriotism, but the government's offer of two dollars per day for recruits does not meet with more than slow response.

Many men are interested in the crisis, as onlookers, but a genuine, general desire to fight for the government is lacking.

Six hundred troops started Friday afternoon by train from Pinar del Rio for San Juan de Martinez.

Rebels Lack Ammunition.

A letter received here from a reliable correspondent who visited Pinar Guerra at San Juan de Martinez, says that the insurgent leader's force amounts to 2,000 men. The correspondent says that all the people in that part of the country are liberals and sympathizers with the insurrection, but that Guerra has not sufficient ammunition either to take Pinar del Rio or sustain a prolonged fight. The people have plenty of arms but little ammunition and they have no chance of procuring it. This is believed here to be a correct view of the situation.

Insurgents Give Up Town.

A force of government artillerymen under command of Capt. Pujol Friday occupied San Juan de Martinez without resistance. This town was taken August 23 by a band of insurgents operating under Pinar Guerra.

At San Antonio de Los Baños, Havana province, and situated 21 miles southwest of Havana city, a detachment of rural guards encountered a band of insurgents. Of the latter two were killed, their comrades dispersing.

Liberals are Passive.

In an interview Alfredo Zayas, vice president of the senate and leader of the liberal party, said: "The liberals will take no action or make any official statement with regard to the present revolt unless the independence of Cuba should be menaced by actions of the revolutionists or the government, which would be likely to bring outside interference."

Senator Zayas admitted that it was true the majority of the insurgents are liberals, but claimed that there are also moderates and Nunez among the insurgents. The liberals, he said, always had been opposed to resort to arms and did not countenance the present method of protest against the manner of the holding of the last elections.

Resolved To Live Without Medicine

From a correspondent at Janesville, Wis., comes an interesting account of an experience of Mr. Chas. S. Brown an aged citizen of Lake Mills, a small town near that place.

Mr. Brown has been in ill health for some years in consequence of a severe case of catarrh in the head and stomach. He had doctored for many months without success and a short time ago announced his intention to stop using medicines altogether and live as long as he could without them. This he did, but finding his condition growing worse became alarmed.

About this time L. T. Cooper and his medicines came into prominence in this portion of the country and Mr. Brown, read of the remarkable results they were accomplishing. The balance of the story is best told in his own words as are quoted in part as follows: "I had suffered from headaches, indigestion, catarrh of the head and when I heard of the wonderful work that Cooper's medicines were doing for the sick I could not resist trying them."

"I made inquiries and found that the preparations could be obtained at a local drug store and purchased a small quantity of them. I had little faith I admit, and you can imagine my surprise and delight when, after using them about one week, I actually found myself getting better. Gradually my condition improved and I gained in strength and flesh. My hearing improved and I noticed that my headaches were less frequent and not so violent. Now, after several weeks' treatment I can hear, sleep well and have none of my former symptoms. I feel confident that I can now stick to my resolution to live without taking any more medicine."

The success of these preparations Cooper's New Discovery and Cooper's Quick Relief is so surprising, and inquiry at L. B. Heimsweert's drug store, where they are sold, in Janesville, brought forth the information that immense quantities of them have been sold here and some remarkable results have been reported.

WILL REBUILD VALPARAISO

FINER STRUCTURES TO RISE ON RUINS OF CITY.

Over 1,000 Killed by Earthquake Have Been Buried and as Many More Bodies Are in the Debris.

Valparaiso, Aug. 25.—As a result of the splendid courage of the people and with the cooperation of the city government, Valparaiso will be rebuilt within a few years on finer and more beautiful lines than before the disaster of August 16.

The rain Thursday night caused most of the people to desert the tents which they have occupied since the earthquake and return to their houses. Almost all the walls are cracked, but there was no violent earth tremors during the night or Friday. Many of the people had to walk long distances carrying their bed clothes on their shoulders.

There are no conflagrations, but the blowing up of damaged and dangerous structures with dynamite continues, and loud explosions are frequently heard. Otherwise the town has assumed an almost normal appearance.

Many business houses have been reopened.

The residences on Alegre and Victoria hills, which are occupied principally by Americans, Englishmen and Germans, suffered comparatively little damage.

In the quarter of the city which suffered most severely, entire streets have been practically wiped out.

One thousand of those who were killed by the earthquake already have been buried and there are more than 1,000 corpses beneath the ruins.

YOUNG DIAMOND THIEF CAUGHT.

Youthful Clerk Leads Police Merry Chase Before He Is Captured.

New York, Aug. 25.—Locked up at police headquarters is a romantic prisoner, Louis Mochorosky, a youth charged with the larceny of $5,000 worth of diamonds several months ago.

Mochorosky, who is but seventeen years old, afforded the police of many of the states of this country a vain chase and then went to Europe.

It was only love for a girl in Denver, whom he ventured back to the United States to see, which led to his arrest.

The boy was employed by Isaac Wolf, a jeweler in the Bowery. One day last spring Wolf missed a number of diamonds from his stock. Wolf remembered that the young clerk the evening before had helped him place in a safe the diamonds which had been displayed in the store windows, and this, coupled with his failure to report for work, led the jeweler to suspect him of the theft of the gems.

Detectives traced the youth to Denver.

In the Colorado capital Mochorosky met the young woman, affection for whom eventually led to his capture.

From Colorado the youth went to Russia, where his parents live, and from Russia he went to Germany. Recently Mochorosky returned to Denver and immediately went to the home of his sweetheart. He was arrested there and brought to this city.

HAGGLE OVER BRYAN RECEPTION

Anti-Trust League Leaders Object to Politicians Controlling Affair.

New York, Aug. 25.—Harry W. Walker, who has had an active part in arranging the reception to be given to W. J. Bryan by the Commercial Travelers' Anti-trust league on August 30, Friday gave out a statement to the effect that politicians headed by Alexander Troup, of Connecticut and Norman E. Mack, of Buffalo, are trying to control the movement and that the league will control the arrangements for the reception, even if it has to tell the politicians to retire.

"Mr. Bryan accepted the invitation from the Commercial Travelers' Anti-trust league," said Mr. Walker, "and we think that he will appear there as stated."

Mr. Mack, who is the Democratic national committeeman from this state, said in reply to the statement that there is a popular impression that the Bryan reception is a political affair and that Mr. Bryan regards it that way.

"Why shouldn't politicians take part in it?" he asked. Mr. Mack said he is not making trouble in the committee and that there is not talk of Hearst in the arrangements.

CABINET DECIDES REVOLUTION MUST BE CRUSHED.

TIGHT REIN FOR REBELS

Declares Relaxation in Rigor of Government's Policy Is Out of Question Until Revolution Has Been Wiped Out.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 25.—At a session of the cabinet Friday evening, which lasted several hours, the conclusion was reached that in view of the existing conditions, any relaxation in the rigor of the government's policy is utterly out of the question, and that it is necessary to continue the battle against the revolutionary forces with all the means at command.

It also was decided that the elections should be held on the same date throughout the empire, instead of over a period of several weeks, as was the case in the former elections, in order to prevent the opponents of the government concentrating their efforts in various districts in succession.

Commutes Death Sentence.

Odessa, Aug. 25.—Gov. Gen. Kaulbars Friday for the first time annulled a court-martial's death sentence. The case was that of a peasant named Rymsha, whose political offense was committed to ten years at hard labor.

The Octoberist programme now includes universal suffrage and forcible expropriation where it may be necessary in order to settle the agrarian problem, but not as a general rule.

INDICTS RAILROAD AND OIL COMPANY

FEDERAL GRAND JURY ALLEGES REBATES WERE PAID.

CONTAINS MANY COUNTS

One Hundred and Twenty-three, Separate and Distinct Violations of the Law Charged Against Shipping Concern.

Jamestown, N. Y., Aug. 25.—The New York Central Railroad company was indicted by the western New York federal grand jury Friday afternoon on a charge of giving discriminating and unlawful freight rates on shipments of oil by the Standard Oil company and of unlawfully failing to file a schedule of such rates with the interstate commerce commission at Washington.

The Standard Oil company was again indicted on a charge of accepting unlawful and discriminating freight rates on shipments of oil over the Pennsylvania, the New York Central and the Vermont Central railroad companies.

Indictments are Similar.
The indictments are closely related to those found by the same jury two weeks ago against the Standard Oil company and the Pennsylvania in the matter of discriminating rates for oil shipped by the Standard from Olean to Burlington, Vt. All of such shipments were over the Pennsylvania, from Olean to Rochester; over the New York Central from Rochester to Norwood, N. Y., and over the Vermont Central from Norwood, to its destination.

Alleges Rate Discrimination.
Friday's indictment specifies that the New York Central made a special rate to the Standard from Rochester to Norwood, of nine cents per 100 weight while such rates were not given to other shippers, nor a schedule of the same filed with the interstate commerce commission. The charges were embraced in one count.

Charges 123 Violations.
In the indictment against the Standard Oil company returned Friday there were 123 counts, each count relating to a separate and distinct shipment of oil over this route, all at rates approximating 15 cents per 100 weight while rates for similar shipments from Bradford, Warren, Oil City and Titusville, Pa., to Vermont, were 33 cents per 100 weight.

Rebates Out of Proportion.
These shipments, it is alleged, were under substantially the same conditions, while the alleged discriminations accepted by the Standard Oil company of more than 15 cents per hundred weight were out of all proportion to reason and fairness considering the additional distance from the Pennsylvania towns to Vermont.

The indictments were accepted, by Judge Hazel, and the jury was discharged with the thanks of the court.

FOREST RESERVE TEST.

How Black Hills Will Be Seeded With Pine Cones.

The Black Hills forest reserve, one of the most important of all reserves in the United States, is conducting a line of experiments which are resulting in one of the unique industries of the country, says a Deadwood (S. D.) dispatch.

It is Captain Bullock's plan to smooth over every burned spot in the reserve by seeding broadcast in the spring with pine cones. This experiment was made on thirty acres of ground last spring and yielded good results, producing one pine seedling to each square foot.

Captain Bullock has a large army of helpers, composed of the small boys of the Black Hills. They are gathering pine cones, for which they are paid by the forestry department 25 cents a bushel. As this pay is not very large, it becomes necessary for the boys to furnish a large amount to make the industry pay.

Under them in their efforts is a still larger army—that of the red squirrels. The squirrels are the greatest cone gatherers in the country, and so valuable are they that the bounty which has been offered by the forestry department for their pelts has been abolished, and instead these little animals are gathering some 1,200 bushels of cones, which will make about 1,500 pounds of seed.

The boys have already gathered 1,200 bushels of cones, which will make about 1,500 pounds of seed. They are not allowed to pick them, but gather them from the ground or from the squirrels' dens. As high as nine bushels of cones have been found in one den, and several of the holes of these little forest rangers have yielded up at least six bushels.

Honest Man.

"Will you love me when I am old?" asked the little girl, daintily, with the corkscrew curls, the false fizzes, the suspiciously bright teeth—and the large, bank account.

"Why, I love you now, don't I?" asked the plain, every-day, matter-of-fact, unadorned man who was trying to provide for his future.

And oh, brethren! the voiceless wind that drifts across the open Polar sea was a hot wave compared to the atmosphere that surrounded him in a minute.—Judge.

The right hand, although more sensitive to the touch than the left, is less sensitive than the latter to the effect of heat or cold.

DELIGHTS OF THE CATSKILLS

Where Deer Are Plentiful and the Bear Often Trapped.

Most people who are lovers of camp life turn up their noses when one mentions the Catskills, and, indeed, in certain parts and at certain seasons this country is by no means ideal for camping, says Field and Stream. However, it is surprising that within 125 miles of New York, there should be places very rarely visited by city people and where deer are plentiful and bears frequently trapped. Certainly the beautiful clear streams and fine mountain scenery are very enticing, and, above all, the ease and expense of getting there is a minimum.

Three of us decided to make a trip through this region, gypsy fashion, in a circle of about 100 miles' circumference. The idea was to hire a horse and wagon, stow our tents and blankets and a few necessary clothes in it and travel through the country, visiting the various streams in order to try the fishing. As we had our tents and a few provisions (which latter were easily replenished when we passed a country store), it was not necessary to reach any particular place by nightfall, but rather we were at liberty to stop where the prospects of fishing seemed the best—usually well back from the villages.

TWINS ALWAYS DRESSED ALIKE

No Wonder Daughters of Mrs. Ogden Mills Attract Attention.

London is greatly interested in "the Mills twins," daughters of Mrs. Ogden Mills and niece of the American ambassador. Separately these two girls would not attract any particular attention, but together and invariably dressed alike, from the tips of their toes to their very Parisian hats, everyone stares at them and everyone asks who they are. Ever since they were born Mrs. Ogden Mills has insisted that they shall be dressed alike to the minutest detail. Each of these girls has the same set of friends, and no one ever thinks of giving a present to one without also presenting the same to the other. Their maids are also twin sisters and are exceedingly alike, and they, too, are dressed exactly the same. Their pets are always of the same family; for instance, their favorites, two fox terriers, are brothers, while their little Japanese spaniels are sisters. For matrimonial purposes, we assume, only twins need apply.

A "Regular Pickle."

Margie heard a neighbor speak of some one who was in trouble as being "in a pickle." Shortly after her small brother was plunging some mischief and she exclaimed: "Oh, you mightn't get that Harry, or you will get in a cucumber!"

HOLDS UNUSUAL POSITION.

Only Woman in the World Who Conducts a Dry Dock Business.

Miss Ella Lawless occupies a unique position in marine affairs. She is the proprietor of a dry dock and shipyard in Jersey City, and is carrying on the business founded by her father, who died about five years ago. She is the only woman in this country, if not in the world, conducting a dry dock business. She is making a success of it, for she is equipped with executive ability, courage, business tact and last but not least, personal magnetism, and thoroughly understands all the details of her unusual calling. Miss Lawless was born in New York state in a town near Syracuse, and comes of revolutionary stock. One of her ancestors served throughout the war for independence under Washington. Her father took a prominent part in the civil war. She is a charter member of the Order of the Eastern Star, and is actively affiliated with other fraternal societies. Miss Lawless resides in Union Hill, N. J., and is prominently identified with the social and charitable life of the town.

TELEPHONE-MEGAPHONE.

Unique Instrument Now in Use at a Colorado Pay Station.

A public telephone pay station of unusual interest is at Colorado Springs. The instrument is connected with the system of the Colorado Telephone company and is mounted on a substantial wooden box on a pole at a convenient height for passersby.

The box is supplied with the usual telephone directory, and the instrument is equipped with the familiar slot and cashbox, used in "nickel service."

The interesting feature of the installation, says the Electrical Review, is the small megaphone trumpet of tin. The telephone station primarily constitutes the local substitution of a news stand about 20 feet away, and the object of the megaphone is to enable the newsman to hear the ringing of the telephone bell amid the noises of the street—a matter of no small difficulty otherwise, when the box door happens to be closed.

Compass Nests.

In the tropical northern territory of South Australia travelers need not carry a compass. The district abounds with the nests of the "magnet" or meridian ant. The longer axes of these point due north and south.
